

Applications Invited for The Clinical Colloquium in Menopause and Midlife Women's Health

Program Overview

The Clinical Colloquium in Menopause and Midlife Women's Health is an IMS medical education program comprised of roundtable sessions with the world's leading experts on menopause and midlife women's health. There are ten themed roundtables, each of which will be led by an expert on the topic. Topics will strive to be clinically relevant while integrating the latest science and innovation in mid-life women's health. Topics will cover a broad range and are likely to include: Starting a Mid-life Women's Health Unit; Bone Health; MHT; VVA/GSM; Cardiovascular Health; Sexual Function; Cognition and Mood; Ultrasound; Managing Menopause without Hormones and Breast Health.

Each roundtable will last one hour and be held online. Each session will be comprised of an expert delivering a didactic talk and facilitating an interactive question and answer session with participants. There will be an assessment and a certificate of completion provided at the end of the program. A free one-year Limited Professional Membership to the IMS will also be offered to the course participants. The sessions will be delivered in English and held April 2023-February 2024.

Applicant Requirements

A cohort of health care professionals (HCPs) from across the globe will be selected via an application process to attend the program. Applications are invited from HCPs who are interested in upgrading their information and knowledge about menopause and midlife women's health. Applicants must be able to commit to attend each of the sessions in the program, normally held at 14.00 Central European time.

Application Process
